

Climate Action Policy of the College of Agriculture at Wasit University

The College of Agriculture stands as one of Wasit University's key institutions, necessitating committed action to eradicate illiteracy and mitigate the impacts of climate change. In response to this imperative, the institution has developed a climate action policy aimed at aiding the province in tackling this issue. Given the adverse effects of the climate crisis in Iraq, the College collaborates with academics, government representatives, NGOs, and climate change experts to develop resources and tools that inspire communities to devise viable solutions.

Throughout 2024, numerous facilities and staff members underwent training and actively participated in workshops and seminars aimed at enhancing campus sustainability. By transitioning from trainees to volunteers, these educators played a pivotal role in promoting awareness of sustainable practices.
